Engraved Invitations Not Needed for Cooking School

Interest Spreads in Antioch
News' Free Show Feb.
22-24, Antioch Theatre

A welcome invitation to the wise is sufficient.

Evidently the Antioch News will not have to get out engraved invitations for that reunion of homemakers
February 22, 23 and 24 at the Antioch Theatre.

Good news does travel fast, especially when its news of a gala party for the community, with gifts, with quality entertainment cheered by jollity and novelty, and spiced with knowledge—all served hospitably by The Antioch News.

No door cards, coupons, printed invitations, or cash will be needed;
just the countersign of all alert housekeepers, who are due to say "Show me the latest home ideas" when the advance on Antioch Theatre at two o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

Showing every person in every theatre seat the triumphant new 1938 Cooking School, direct from Hollywood, will be no problem, for motion picture ingenuity has joined forces with scientific homemaking to produce an original laboratory course that deftly combines romance, sprightly humor, originality and profitable instruction.

All of the popular features of the former Cooking School are here;
The free recipe sheets, the atmosphere of congenial informality, the wise counsel, the hints on clever short-cuts, the up-to-the-minute suggestions for entertaining, the demonstration of delicious and nourishing dishes, the array of modern kitchen equipment and the distribution of daily gifs and real surprises.

All those elements of fun and profit have been retained, and all are made doubly worth-while because every guest of The Antioch News will have an individual close-up of every process.

This scientific new laboratory of ideas has graduated out of the class where hundreds of women erred in their necks in vain attempt to see what was happening on the stage, or assailed the lecturer with plaintive cries: "Hold it up high, where we all can see."

Now the camera will make the course truly fascinating and valuable, with remarkable close-ups of each process in a series of model, conven-bany Park M. E. church of Chicago,

DEMOCRATIC PURGE PROVES BOOMERANG FOR COUNTY CHAIRMAN

"Purification" Program Is Denounced as a Grave
Political Error

"This motion is out of order. I rule the motion out of order. Meeting adjourned."

So shouted Dr. R. R. Bosworth, Highland Park dentist and chairman of the Lake County Democratic Central committee, thus ending a revolt of precinct committeemen over the Democratic inaugurated gambling reform, by adjourning Friday night's committee meeting in the midst of what is reported to be a turbulent argument.

Dissension broke loose just after the committee had adopted a resolution endorsing the candidacy of County Clerk Russ Alford for re-election. That was when Alderman William E. Schaufel of Waukegan, committeeman from the sixteenth Waukegan precinct, moved that a roll-call be taken to determine whether the Democratic party in Lake county as an organization, had demanded the purging of the county of all gambling and gaming devices, or whether it was the work of individuals acting as leaders of the party without the sanction of the committee as a whole. The motion met with "seconds" from all parts of the floor, and demands were made for an immediate roll-call. It was at this point that Chairman Bosworth pounded his gavel and adjourned the meeting.

Seek Successors to Leaders Repercussions of the stormy session are being heard throughout the country, which are said to amount to the decision to replace at the forthcoming primary those committeemen responsible for the untimely launching of the "purification" program, which is regarded as a grave political error.
Those slated for removal include Chairman Bosworth of course.

While many believe that the removal of the gaming devices is a desirable thing, it is evident that the majority of committeemen object to making the matter of political significance. It is generally understood that gambling exists by virtue of public sentiment in its favor and has no place in politics, either Democratic or Republican.

Among those mentioned prominently
as a possible successor to Chairman Bosworth are Jack Bairstow, young attorney of Waukegan, who was a candidate for state's attorney two years ago, and Einar Sorenson of Channel Lake, who has been a party leader for many years, and is present vice chairman of the county committee.

CONTEND PRICE ON SANITARIUM SITE IS FAR TOO HIGH

Offered at $500 an Acre;
County to Pay More Than $637

Citizens who have been investigating into the plan of the County board of supervisors to purchase the old Wooley tract on Belvidere street, in Waukegan, as the site of the proposed Tuberculosis sanitarium are mystified by the fact that while the property was offered for sale at $500 an acre through real estate brokers by the owners, the county intends to pay more than $637 an acre for the land.

Under an agreement reached between the sanitarium board of Lake county, which is representing the county board in the transaction, Elizabethe Hardiman and Esther B.
Corzine, owners of the property, the county agrees to pay $10,000 in cash and to assume the payment of all unpaid general taxes and all installments on special assessments due and to become due on special assessment No.
945 of the city of Waukegan. The agreement contains this provision:

Cite Provisions
"Said Sanitarium Board of Lake County agrees to purchase said tract of land from the sellers for the aforesaid price and agrees to pay the purchase price upon the furnishing to said Board of a guaranty policy in the amount of Fifteen Thousand ($15, 000.00) Dollars, showing said title to be free and clear, subject as aforesaid, and the delivery of a good and sufficient warranty deed; said guaranty policy to be furnished within thirty (30) days from the date hereof."

The unpaid general taxes on the property up until 1936 represent a total of $2,642.38 while the 1937 taxes not yet paid total $164.64. The special assessments due on the property now total $1,469.38. This makes a total of $2,764.00 as being due in taxes and special assessments. Added to the $10,000 offered for the property
the county has agreed to pay $14, 276.40 for the land.

List Other Properties

It has been pointed out that the Tyrrell tract located to the east and regarded as more favorable property for building purposes is being offered for sale at $500 an acre while land owned by Frederic H. Bartlett and company located several blocks to the west can be bought for $250 to $300 an acre.

SPRINGFIELD FUTURE FARMERS BUY ELEVEN HEAD OF CATTLE HERE

Downstate Boys Are Guests of Antioch Ag. Dept.

Saturday

Seven Future Farmers, their adviser and an Assistant State Vocational Supervisor from Springfield, Illinois, spent Saturday and Sunday purchasing pure bred dairy heifer and bull calves in the vicinity of Antioch.
They were the guests of the Dept. of Vocational Agriculture of the Antioch Township High school and were conducted on a dairy farm tour to 21 dairy farms by C. L. Kutil, director of the local school.

"It is also evident that you studied all school measures with an open mind and gave strict attention to your committee work and the debates on the floor of the house.

"I hope your constituents will keep you in the General Assembly as long as you care to serve them and to give to the schools the same excellent service you gave them this year."

Yours respectfully,

(signed) R. C. Moore.

Aids Labor and Agriculture

Rep. Keller's friends declare that his devotion to the cause of education has not made him less alert to every opportunity to further the interests of labor and agriculture, and they express the belief that he has gained additional strength in these groups during his term of service. However, it was in school legislation that his work came prominently before the public, and it is said that very few of his contemporaries and possibly none of his predecessors have participated his record on school legislation.

That is easy to understand when it is known that Rep. Keller is a school enthusiast, insisting that the poorest child has an inalienable right to the best opportunity the state can provide.

It is a saying of his that "better schools make better children and better citizens."

MOTHERS CLUB TO

The total amount of business transacted since May 1st, 1937, was $981.00.

BART TYRREL IN RACE FOR SHERIFF

Sgt. Bart Tyrrell of the Waukegan police department, and a former candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket, took out petitions at the office of County Clerk Russ Alford, today, and will again be a candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket. It was generally reported in Waukegan yesterday that Sgt. Art Stanton of Ingleside who had been mentioned as a possible candidate for sheriff would not enter the race. Mr. Stanton is in charge of the state police in this district.

PERSONS AND EVENTS BLAMED FOR PLIGHT OF U. S., SPEAKER SAYS

Frederic Snyder, Speaker for Woman's Club, Peers into the Future

The United States government is only a ten per cent democracy at the present time, and fascism is inevitable unless American business asserts its self or war intervenes to cement the warring internal factions together in a common cause to prevent the utter destruction of our form of government. Persons and events are to be blamed for the plight of our people.

That was the amazing statement of Frederic Snyder, world traveler, in his address, "Behind the Headlines," delivered at Antioch High school Tuesday night under the auspices of the Antioch Woman's Club. The lecture was free and was the gift of the local woman's club to the community. Mrs.
Ed F. Vos, president of the club, introduced the speaker.

People Hate Dictators

Snyder, known as "the verbal editor," touched on the highlights of the news during the past two years. His travels in Europe and Asia enabled him to present a true word picture of the actual conditions existing among the people in Italy, France, Germany, Russia, and in war-torn Spain and the far east. Snyder be-

He prepares our weekly Sunday

Thousands of Sunday school teachers refer to this syndicated article each week for their texts and ex-

of popularity.

Dean Lundquist is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, a member of the bar, a former army man and a churchman. These varied experiences enable him to understand human nature much better than the average person. He was schooled at the Princeton (N. J.) Theological seminary and was graduated with the first class completing the pastors' course at the Moody Institute.

But formal training does not ac-

His wide experiences have kept him abreast of the times, a requisite for popularity among youth today.

ANTIOCH LIONS HEAD PLAN FOR NEW WATERWAY

Seek to Enlist State and Federal Aid for the Project Here

A new waterway for Antioch, with real navigable flowing water right up to the village limits, a project long in contemplation in the minds of many progressive citizens, is again to be brought to the attention of the community at a meeting of the Antioch Lions club at the Antioch hotel Monday night when Carter Jenkins, chief engineer of the waterways division of the state department of public works and buildings, will bring to the meeting the engineering features of the proposed improvement. The state official is also expected to reveal what assistance may be expected from the state department in co-operating with federal and local authorities in getting the project under way.

Public Invited

The plan of bringing the waters of Chain o' Lakes to Antioch has been before the Lions club for many months, and President Ed Vos is anxious that all interested citizens at-

That "General Feeling" Is No Pipe Dream

That "general feeling" is no pipe dream in the United States today. The politicians can advance all the alibis they like about who cripes business, but some very simple facts remain—little business and the small investor are afraid. Taxation, political attacks on business, and labor radicalism have driven him into his cyclone cellar.

For example, the owner of a successful meat market and grocery store in Portland, Oregon, wanted to make $6,000 improvements. Fearing labor troubles, he wouldn't start.

A successful grocer near Portland recently bought a lot on which to build a store for his business which is in an old rented building. But under present conditions, he said, "Why should I start in the face of the present financial and industrial mess?"

A small business firm in Portland which should reinvest a few thousand dollars, has held off for two months because of uncertainties, and disturbance of security values which has been aggravated by the political drive on business.

Multiply this situation by 10,000 times over the United States, and you get that "general feeling" that no one can laugh off.

Why beat about the bush? Check up on your own feelings, as well as those of your friends, and draw your own conclusions as to what is causing the business slump.

Cause and Cure

B. C. Forbes, noted writer on subjects of economics and finance, hits the nail pretty squarely on the head, we believe, in his recent article on the "Causes and Cure of the Depression."

WILMOT

Fire department officials elected for 1938 for the Wilmot department are: President—Marlin M. Schmurr; Fire Chief—Raymond Rudolph; First assistant—John Sutcliffe, Sr.; Second assistant—Melvin Lake; Treasurer—William Wertz; Secretary—Benjamin Nett; Chairman, entertainment committee—Fred Albrecht; Treasurer of lunch committee—Herbert Sarbacker.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilm Peterson were in Kenosha for the graduation exercises of the Kenosha High school. Their son, Merlin, was salutatorian in a class of 168 graduates.

Charles Bruel has spent the past two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faulkner.

Virgine and Frank Voss were in Genoa City, Saturday for dental work. At a business meeting of St. Anne's Society of the Holy Name church the following officers were re-elected to succeed themselves for the 1938 term: President—Mrs. W. Sarbacker, Silver Lake; vice president—Mrs. Francis Reiter, Silver Lake; secretary—Miss Rose Yanny, Wilmot; treasurer—Mrs. H. J. Nett, Wilmot.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake, Silver Lake, have moved into the Frank Krucknian house on the west street.

Honeymoon Mountain' Praised by Reviewer
in New York Times

New Novel Chosen as Serial for This Newspaper.

"Honeymoon Mountain," the latest novel by Frances Shelley Wees, this paper's newest serial story, brought forth the following comment by the New York Times:

"A determined young lover will find a way, even if it is a very roundabout one. The author has hedged in her young lovers with more obstacles than there were in the rocky mountain roads round the home where pretty Deborah lived in the wilderness of Oregon. The clearing up of her problems makes an appealing romance with a pleasant mixture of the old-fashioned and the ultra modern."

There's a spring-morning freshness to this story that carries you along with a thrilling sense of anticipation. Deborah's mother had made an unhappy marriage and her grandparents, to protect her from a like tragedy, reared her in the absolute seclusion of a mountain estate. At twenty-one, unspoiled and naive, she was to marry a houndskinned suitor and then come into her fortune. When the prospective husband proved impossible, Bryn stepped in as a substitute, ostensibly for the $50,000 he was offered. The young man's gallant struggle to win his shy but proud young wife makes a tale you'll long remember.

Frances Shelley Wees is a native of Oregon, the locale of this serial. California and Alberta, Canada, have been her homes since childhood. She is descended, on the maternal side, from Canadians of English extraction. Her father's people are Americans, having begun their westward migration in its colonial times.

Though quite a newcomer in the literary world, her rise has been marked with success. Some of her popular novels are "The Mystery of the Creeping Man," "Romance Island," and "The Maestra Murders." Read her latest as it unfolds serially in this paper.

We possess practically every ingredient essential to prosperity except one, Mr. Forbes says, and that one is confidence. He adds:

"This ingredient can be supplied only by Washington."

"Out of all these conferences now being held by President Roosevelt with men who have played a constructive part in making America great, it is profoundly to be hoped that good will come, that political backbiting will subside, that cooperation will develop, that re-employment will take the place of expanding unemployment, that good times will very shortly supplant the wholly unnecessary bad times now causing so much suffering to our people and imperiling our national future."

Discussion Blocked

Without going into the practicability of the constitutional amendment provided for in the Ludlow resolution, and leaving aside the merits of the arguments as to whether such an amendment would work as anticipated by its sponsors, it is significant of the strength of the American desire to avoid foreign adventures that consideration of the amendment was stopped by the close vote of 209 to 188. This is an overwhelmingly New Deal Congress, elected by a presidential landslide at a time when Mr. Roosevelt's popularity was at its highest. Yet after the President had written a letter to Congress asking that the resolution be shelved, the vote on reporting it out was decidedly close.

In considering action on the resolution in the House, it is to be remembered that the matter under discussion was not the amendment itself but a motion to get the resolution out of committee where it could be debated by the House.

Action taken by the House therefore was not against submitting the constitutional amendment to the voters but against getting the resolution out into the sunlight of publicity where it could be discussed by the representatives of the people. In other words, the vote taken by the House was a vote against discussion of the amendment at all, against considering its good points or its impracticability. If this be democracy, of course, we can make the most of it.

TAKES PICTURES IN LAND OF SAVAGES

Explorer Spends Six Months on Hainan Island.

San Francisco.—Nicol Smith, young San Francisco explorer and adventurer, has returned to his home here from a six-month exploration trip to lonely Hainan Island off the southeast coast of China.

Hainan island is northeast of Indo-China off the southeastern China coast. It is 100 miles long and 95 miles wide. Until Smith's recent explorations in the interior of the island no white man had ever penetrated inland. The island is populated by primitive natives of Malay origin who still hunt with poisoned arrows.

Attacked by Water Buffalo.

Smith had several "close shaves" with death on his latest trip, he said. On one occasion his car was attacked by a huge water buffalo and at another time, he said, an airplane in which he was flying from Hainan to Canton, to get permission to take photographs in the island's interior, was forced to land in the wild-tiger district of Lin Chow in South China, miles from civilization.

In the heart of the wild Hainan country Smith almost died from the effects of a severe stroke. On another occasion quick action of a companion saved him from drowning in a swift mountain river.

Smith made the only motion pictures ever taken of the Lal aborigines tribes of Hainan and obtained recordings of their native music. He made the first inland maps for the National Geographic society and obtained botanical specimens for the American Museum of Natural History.

Rare Bear Captured.

A rare Hainan bear, captured by the expedition, died before it could be transported from the interior and the animal was stuffed. It was the only bear of this species ever seen by a white person, Smith said. Among other trophies was the skin of a 14-foot python killed by a member of the exploring party.

At the completion of his Hainan island exploration Smith traveled to Yunnan on the Burma-Tibetan border. While there he was the first white man to visit Koebul, the "mystery city of Asia." In more than 20 years. In Koebul, Smith said, 25,000 children have been sold into slavery.

In the last ten years Smith has toured unusual out-of-the-way sections of Europe, Asia, America and the South Seas. He has made extensive explorations in the interior of Dutch Guiana.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work.

It is a review and exposition of the International lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages.

In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student, you will find it extremely helpful.

Lesson for February 6

CHALLENGING THE SOCIAL ORDER

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:13-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—“I come not to call the righteous, but sinners”—Mark 2:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Ited Dinner With Matthew.
JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus Passed By.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
Bible by Being Friendly.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
Crusading for a Christian Society.

“Crusading for a Christian Society,” is one of the topics assigned for consideration today. Everyone who is right thinking would be glad if the social order of which we are all a part might be made Christian, for it is far from it now. But foredoomed to failure are the attempts to Christianize society by some great program of “social regeneration.” God’s way is to save the individual who makes up the social order. When a man is right with God he will be right with his fellow man.

The Scripture lesson for today is full of outstanding spiritual principles of the greatest practical import to both Christians and the unconverted. It should be studied by the guidance of the Holy Spirit and taught in his power.

I. One Sinner Becomes a Servant (vv. 13, 14).

Capernaum was so situated that it provided an excellent location for the collection of the Roman taxes which the Jews so hated. There at the “receipt of custom” sat a Jew named Levi, who was no doubt despised by his neighbors because he had joined in this distasteful business.

To him came the gracious Lord with the invitation, “Follow me.” How different would be the history of the cause of Christ on earth if every other man who thus was called had done likewise. To follow the Master means sacrifice and breaking with the old life, but it also means peace and glory.

II. Many Sinners Meet the Lord (v. 15).

Levi, who now becomes Matthew, showed his love for the Lord by desiring that his friends might also meet him. So he prepared a dinner for them in his own house, to which he also invited Jesus.

It is always dangerous for a Christian to maintain social contact with his former companions in sin, if he does so for his own enjoyment or advantage. But to be their friends that one may win them to Christ, that is most desirable.

III. Some Righteous Folk Miss the Lord (vv. 16, 17).

Sin is an unspeakably horrible thing that separates men from God, but it is not an insuperable barrier, for the moment a man confesses his sin and calls on the Saviour he is saved. But self-righteousness—that is the impassable barrier. God can do nothing for the man who rests his hope of salvation on his own good character, high morality, and respectable position in society.

IV. Fasting and Feasting—When and Why (vv. 18-20).

God established one fast day for Israel. They established many, especially the Pharisees. Religion that loses its spiritual life and power clings with tenacity to outward observances and symbols.

Should one never fast? Yes, to the true follower of Jesus there come times when the urgency of soul concerning the problems of one’s own life; the lives of others; the needs of the world, shuts the door of interest to anything as ordinary as food for the body.

Feasting and rejoicing—are these spiritual and uplifting? Christianity is a joyful faith. It is not to be hidden in damp, dark cloisters; it thrives in the sunshine, in the happy laughter of a child, in the cheerful shout of the saint. The Church is the Bride of Christ. If the friends of the bridegroom were to rejoice (v. 19), should not the Bride shout for joy?

V. New Things versus Old Things (vv. 21, 22).

The Pharisees wanted the gospel of grace to conform to the narrow channels of their interpretation of the law. Was not the law good? Yes. Jesus said he came not to destroy it, but to fulfil it (Matt. 5:17). He bore the curse of the law that we might be free (Gal. 3:13, 14). But he also brought in the new covenant of assurance and grace.

The mixing of grace and law, or the effort to do so, has continued even to our day. Let us be clear on that point—we are saved by grace, not by the works of the law (Eph. 2:8, 9). We work because we are saved, not in order to be saved.

Prominent Race Drivers Testing New Hudson 112

Four Hudson 112 cars, off on a 10,000-mile test run, each piloted by a famous race driver. Inset shows the four race drivers who are testing the new Hudson 112. Left to right: Babe Stapp, Ira Vail, J. E. Schipper, Director of Public Relations, Hudson Motor Car Company, Chet Miller and Ted Horn.

Four of America’s leading race drivers, Babe Stapp, Ted Horn, Chet Miller and Ira Vail are out on individual 10,000-mile test runs with the new Hudson 112, the latest entry in the lowest price field. These drivers are putting the four cars through their paces in widely scattered parts of the country so that all climatic and road conditions will be encountered. The cars and their famous drivers have now been on the road since January 11.

Babe Stapp, well-known California driver who has been up in the money consistently at Indianapolis, took off immediately for his home state. He arrived in Los Angeles four days, with runs of over 900 miles per day. He is now running up and down the Pacific coast with a mixture of mountain and desert running which gives a wide range of temperature and road conditions. Owing to the nature of the country, Stapp can put an infinite variety of experience into his daily reports to the Hudson factory.

Ted Horn, who ranks second in the AAA Contest Board Championship standing this year and who was third at Indianapolis in the last race, is now on his way back from Austin, Texas via Waco, Dallas, Wichita and Des Moines. He will be in Detroit this week end and then off on another lap. Chet Miller who is also a consistent “money man” in the big AAA meets, is completing a lap which took him through Tennessee, Alabama and Florida, down the West coast and up the East, touching at Tampa and over the Tamiami trail to Miami. His route lay through the Big Smokey mountains.

Careful reports of gasoline mileage, oil consumption and other data are being compiled to give the Hudson company first hand information on the performance of these cars. About 20,000 miles of hard running under all sorts of conditions have already been completed with all four drivers highly pleased at the results, without a single stop for repairs, and without any water added to a radiator since the start.

Don't Shoot! It's Barnegat Pete

Barnegat Pete, a deer adopted by Barnegat, N. J., after it escaped a forest fire three years ago, is dressed in a red chequered coat and red and white cat-tail necklace so that he will not be shot during the hunting season. The necklace holds a plaque on which is engraved, "This is Barnegat Pete—Barnegat, N. J., children's pet. Don't shoot!" Pete, of course, has the freedom of the village and here a state trooper holds up traffic to give the pet right of way.

SUEDE COLORS NOW
DOMINATE FASHION*Inspiration Comes From Far
Lands and Outdoors.*By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Suede color inspiration comes from all sorts of places these days, including far-away lands, the great outdoors and even the goodies we like to eat.

From far-away Egypt comes a luscious rust lawrosuede color termed Egyptian clay. Interest in plays and books dealing with Civil war times prompts a bright blue suede called Yankee blue and a vivid red termed cavalry red.

From the great out-of-doors come such suede tones as harvest, rust, gooseberry green, wineberry, gold nugget, and chestnut brown. Other vibrant lawrosuede colors include nutmeg tan, black hawk, greyhound; buck and hockey green.

These spirited suede colors are being used in every channel of fashion. Suede is winter's story from head to toe. Suede shoes, handbags and hats have a major rating. Entire blouses are made of this soft leather and even dresses are being fashioned of suede these days. Suede coats and suits are in the picture. Suede has allied itself with wool, tweed and knitwear.

The cold weather coats and suits and indoor dresses go in for this suede partnership. The pockets and collar of a smart tan tweed suit are of harvest rust suede. Jet black suede panels from top to bottom grace one of winter's smartest black coats.

This suede addition has given new pep to knitted garments. Fronts and backs of knitted dresses are of suede. Collars, yokes and panels of knitted frocks are in a contrasting or matching color of suede. Even entire sleeves are of suede.

And for glamorous evenings a yankee blue suede bolero is the companion of a pencil-slim black dinner dress.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 30.

The Gethsemane Text was, "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1 John 4:16).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Sing, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem. The Lord thy God is in the midst in thee; he is mighty; he will save; he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love; he will joy over the with singing" (Zephaniah 3:14, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporeal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and with our God, immortality cannot appear. . . Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (p. 312).

Rain! Ice! Snow! Zero! Why fret?

They come to church anyway. A very appreciative audience braved the hostile weather last Sunday morning indicating a sincere and deepening interest in the nobler things of life. Dismissed at 11:25, it was observed that it is God's plan that man shall be more than equal to his largest circumstances, his greatest opportunity, and his most exacting task. In Mighty Days, difficult days, we discover the unknown power of God and the latent powers of ourselves.

Mrs. R. H. Childers is the newly elected Superintendent of our Sunday School. Her first task is the co-ordination of the various departments of the Sunday School, and the development of the Senior-Adult department. It is no small task, neither is it impossible. We still need more Sunday School workers. If there are those who can and are willing, we will appreciate it if they will make it known.

At seven o'clock, Tuesday evening, Feb. 8, there will be a social at the church. All members and friends of the church are heartily invited. Entertainment will be provided by the pastor and his wife. A pot luck dinner will be served during the lunch period. COME.

Seal From Land Animal

The seal seems to have descended from some form of land animal, since the bones in their legs and flippers match the bones in the legs and feet of land carnivora. The typical five toes of the land type show in the toenails or claws of the seal's flippers. The seal's back flippers are his propellers, and the front serve merely as balancers and rudders.

By L. L. STEVENSON

New York of another day was recalled by the retirement of George A. Robb, a motorman on the Sixth avenue elevated. Jay Gould was president of the road when he was hired away back in 1885. In those days, the motive power for trains was not electricity but steam engines. Usually anthracite was burned. But when struck shut off the supply, soft coal was substituted. That made smoke. Housewives of Harlem, which wasn't a colored section then, angry because their washings were soiled, threw bricks at the trainmen. Also in those days, on Sundays, a special car was attached to trains. This was for the benefit of bicyclists who wanted to go to Bronx park or Mosholu for exercise far from the throngs of the city. The wheels, as they were called in the gay nineties, were carried in the special car and Robb says that some of the old ricks are still in existence.

Robb spent 52 of his 73 years running up and down Sixth avenue. In all that time, he never was late to work once. In all that time, he did not take so much as one drink—a fact which may have some bearing on his punctuality record. He started as a wiper, became a fireman and then an engineer. When the line was about to be electrified in 1903, he availed himself of the opportunity to learn to operate electric trains, qualified and swapped the throttle for a control handle. His various trips averaged 100 miles a day. Up until 20 years ago, when trainmen went on a six-day week, he made those 100 miles seven days a week. No vacations were granted, but once a year he took a week off on his own time. So despite the fact that his trips were only from the Battery to up into the Bronx, he has covered quite a string of miles.

Now that he has a chance to think back to the time when there were no block signals and when the keenness of the engineer's vision was a bigger safety factor than it is now, Robb is not quite sure what he will do. One thing is certain, however. He won't spend his time riding up and down Sixth avenue and visiting with former fellow workmen. As a matter of fact, should he desire to do so, he wouldn't have the chance for a great while longer. When the Sixth avenue subway, now being dug, is completed,

After a riotous Friday evening tilt against Warren's marauding Blue Devils, the Northwest conference status of Grant's Red and White Raiders has been greatly altered. The heavyweight team has been relegated to the role of a second division squad because of their 36-23 bombing, while the surprising lightweights surged towards the conference leadership with a 23-20 triumph over an impotent Warren secondary aggregation.

While Grant and Warren blazed the sky with a fireworks exhibition at Fox Lake, similar performances were being written into the conference actives as result of other loop affairs. Ela extended its unbeaten conference string to seven in winning a none too impressive tilt against faltering Bensenville. Aside from Palatine's decisive victory performance over Arlington Heights, the league sphere completed another revolution without excessive damage and upset.

Palatine, whose Northwest conference standing is 5 wins and 3 losses, will invade the Grant court this Friday evening. This game will give local fans an opportunity to witness the Red and White quintet in action against high-scoring Palatine, one of the most feared aggregations in the entire circuit. Although Palatine's chances of tying Ela for the mythical conference championship are slim, the Palatine five has an excellent chance to top second money.

"Death Chamber"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

You see a lot of talk in the papers about the "death chambers" that certain states are using to execute their condemned criminals. You sort of gather the idea that those chambers are something relatively new. Well, it's true that it's a new thing to put a man into one of those things deliberately, with intent to kill. But as far as accidental death is concerned, there have been "death chambers" of one kind and another since primitive man first began digging holes in the ground.

Today, if you travel along the concrete road leading from Synderville to Barlonsville, Pa., you can still see the crumbling walls and rotting ruins of an old mill—a sawmill that was once operated by water power.

That mill will never do any more sawing now. But in 1895 it was still in operation. And there, in that same year, on a June day, the events that constitute our adventure story took place in a death chamber thirty feet under ground.

Frank G. Kirkhoff of New York city is the lad who is telling us this yarn. It was Frank's grandfather, Joe Fetherman, who owned that sawmill back in 1895. Frank lived there when he was a kid—he and his brother, Ralph, his mother and dad.

The Turbine Was in a Large Penstock.

Frank can still remember the details of how that old mill was operated. In fact, there are a couple of those details he will never be able to forget. A lot of those old mills had water wheels, but this one used a turbine to turn the racing waters into a power that operated the machinery. The turbine was in a large chamber called the penstock, thirty feet or so under ground. A shaft ran upward from the turbine to the turbine wheel which operated the mill. Water came down to the turbine through a millrace, a flume, and lastly, through a huge pipe that sloped down to the penstock at an angle of about forty-five degrees.

One June day the mill stopped working. A stick, floating down the millrace, had got into the turbine and jammed it. Granddad Fetherman prepared to fix matters up. He made a dam of boards to close up the millrace and keep the water from getting down into the penstock. When the penstock was empty he got ready to go down inside it.

Frank and his brother, Ralph, wanted to go along, and granddad said, "All right. Come ahead." The penstock was under ground, and the only way to reach the big chamber where the turbine lay was through the big pipe from which the water came from the millrace. With the millrace dammed up, that pipe was empty now, and Joe Fetherman and the two kids crawled down through it.

Water Came Rushing Down the Shaft.

Time to Get Out, Thought Granddad.

They reached the penstock and Joe Fetherman found the stick that was clogging the machinery. He grabbed hold of it and gave it a yank, but it was caught fast and he couldn't budge it. He'd have to turn the turbine wheel to release it, and that could only be done from up above. He told young Ralph to go back up through the pipe and give the gate wheel a turn so he could get that stick out.

Ralph went up the big pipe. He was gone quite a while—long enough to have turned that wheel which would move the turbine—but still he hadn't done it. Granddad began to get impatient, and then, suddenly, he had a queer hunch—a hunch that he knew what was wrong. He caught hold of Frank, saying, "Come on—let's get out of here!" And his voice was so gruff and strange that Frank was frightened.

They started up the pipe—but they had gone only a few feet when a sudden rush of water, roaring down that shaft, swept them off their feet and back into the penstock. The penstock began to fill with water. There was no way out. Granddad's hunch had been right. Young Ralph had misunderstood his instructions. Instead of turning the gate wheel, he had pulled out the boards and opened the gate from the race which let in the water!

It didn't take half a minute for that penstock to fill. Rushing water had turned it into a death chamber thirty feet under ground. The flood was within a foot of the top now, and still it was rushing in.

In a hoarse voice, Joe Fetherman said, "I guess it's all over," and he picked young Frank up and held him up against the top of the penstock. For a pifflin few seconds he could save the kid's life. Then the water would be up to the top and they would both drown.

Frank's Father to the Rescue.

And then, all of a sudden, the water began rushing in with less violence. Presently, it stopped coming in. They heard the gales of the water wheel open, and water began running out through the turbine. They waited until the water was down below the level of the pipe, and then began crawling up. When they got to the top, they found the mouth of the pipe barricaded with boards, but presently Frank heard his dad shouting to them and ripping away the boards. They came out into the flume and clambered up on dry ground again.

Frank's dad had saved the day. Young Ralph had opened the gate at the upper end of the millrace, and then ran down ahead of the rushing water so he could watch it leap into the flume. Frank's dad had come out just then. He saw the rushing water and knew that Joe Fetherman had gone down into the penstock. The situation dawned on him, and seizing some boards, he had thrown them over the mouth of the pipe. Then, working furiously, he had opened the wheel gate to let the water out through the turbine, and ran back to the upper end of the race to shut the water off there.

So if you try to tell Frank that "death chambers" are something new, he'll laugh at you. More than forty years ago he almost died in one—like a rat in a trap.

Historic French Fountain

A historic French fountain, centuries old, which once bubbled with Norman cider on festival days, is in the city of Rouen. Rouen possesses eighty-seven fountains, which is believed to be a record for France, but the most famous was La Fontaine du Gros-Horloge, or the Fountain of the Big Clock. Its last restoration dates back to 1732 by Jean-Pierre de France, an architect engaged by the Duke of Normandy.

First Use of "El Dorado."

The word "El Dorado," meaning "the gilded one," was first applied to a South American tribal king or priest, said to cover himself with gold dust at an annual religious festival.

Prison Warders Lived on Fees

In Eighteenth-century England, prison warders and guards, being unsalaried, were obliged to live on the fees and fines they imposed on the inmates.

Largest and most imperative was the "delivery fee" demanded on release. One paid—or stayed.

Persons found not guilty by court trial and even those who were never tried for lack of evidence were likewise held, says Collier's Weekly, sometimes for months until they could make this payment.

In all the various governmental activities in the United States, the only group of persons that is required by law to settle a question by a unanimous vote is the common jury.—Collier's Weekly.

Eight Hats of Napoleon Are Still in Existence

Parla.—The sale at auction of a hat worn by the Emperor Napoleon has opened an inquiry which established the fact that eight such hats are now in existence.

Three of these are in the Invalides museum in Paris, one is at the Fontainebleau museum, one is owned by Prince Napoleon, the Bonapartist pretender in Brussels; another is in the private collection of M. Pauliac, the seventh is owned by the Prince of Monaco and the eighth is the one recently sold at auction for $1,000.

All of the reliefs are well-authenticated with documents, and that of the Prince of Monaco is valued at $2,000.

REIMS CATHEDRAL'S WAR WOUNDS HEALED

Great Edifice Badly Damaged by Fire and Cannon.

Washington, D. C.—Reims (Reims) cathedral, badly damaged by fire and bombardment during the World war, at last has been restored to the magnificence of the days when it served as coronation church of French kings.

"For nearly two decades this cherished French shrine has been closed to the public while architects, financed chiefly by the French government and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., repaired war damage," says the National Geographic Society.

"In 1927 a rededication ceremony marked partial reconstruction of the edifice. Now, after an impressive service, the restored cathedral has been reopened for worship."

"During September, 1914, when the Germans seized Reims, they covered the floor of the cathedral's vast nave with straw, prior to quartering soldiers there. After the Germans withdrew from the town, the French converted the church into a hospital for French and German wounded. Nevertheless the Germans used the high towers as targets, claiming they sheltered military observation posts. Fire completely destroyed the roof, descended wooden scaffolding on a tower to the nave, set the straw on fire, and practically gutted the building."

Bombed and Shelled.

"From time to time, for the remainder of the war, airplane bombs and shells from long-range guns struck the cathedral. Buttresses and chapels were damaged. Only the massive strength of the thick walls saved the interior from utter destruction. Strangely the equestrian statue of Joan of Arc, close by, remained uninjured in the midst of falling shells, and many considered this a good omen.

"Shells that broke pinnacles and disfigured statues also shattered priceless thirteenth-century stained-glass windows. Drawings of these windows fortunately had been preserved, and some of the windows have been reconstructed in their original forms. Others have been fitted with temporary colorless glass awaiting replacement by the stained glass of future artists.

"An entire new roof has been constructed. Walls, pinnacles, and butt

Upper Room

Last Friday we had a game of scrambled words and we had our usual current events, after which we had book reports.

Saturday the boys played a basketball game at Gurnee and lost. During the game "Bitch" dribbled the ball in the wrong direction. After the game the Boy Scouts went swimming at the Y. M. C. A. pool in Waukegan. They had a very nice time. On the way home they stopped at Pop Larson's Frozen Palace and had lunch.

Mr. Dixon started reading the book, "White Fang," to the students.

Phyllis Hahn and John Christian sen are absent from school today (Monday), John because of the heavy rainfall, and Phyllis because of a cold.

The Upper Grade room was planning a sleighing party, but the weather is rather undecided lately, so we will have to wait to see if it will be a sleighing party or a wading party. We are playing checkers to pass the time away until the weather is more suitable for playing.

Wednesday we tried out a new experiment. We tried to see how fast water evaporates. We put the same amount of water into each of a saucer, a beaker and a measuring tube. The water in the saucer is gone and here is just a little left in the other two.

Intermediate Room

Those absent for one-half day last week were Lois Parsons and Marjory Petersen.

We have started a Valentine contest—the one submitting the best valentine will receive a dime.

We helped our teacher celebrate her birthday Monday. Each in our room received a piece of cake.

Host for the week is Bobby Klein.

Jeanette and Rose Mary are very happy to be back with us again and we are just as happy to have them back. We haven't had them with us since Thanksgiving. Several others are back that have been out with colds.

The children surely enjoy the work Dorothy prepares for them. It is very interesting seat work material, calendars for the months, Arithmetic, reading. This week they have enjoyed making polar bears and Eskimos.

Estelle and Buddy Neumann are still absent, but we hope they can be with us soon.

"ABOVE-THE-TABLE" EFFECTS FEATURED

Most Happily Solve Dress-to-Occasion Problem.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS
In the costumes that feature "above-the-table" effects the dress-to-occasion problem is being most happily solved. Designers sensing the need for outfits that look demure enough on the street yet are capable of being transformed into dressier indoor occasions are answering this call of the mode by creating gowns that have glamorous top treatments.

You can wear these under your coat or give them the suit aspect with a handsomely furred or tailored matching jacket. There is no limit to the novel glamorous effects that may be achieved with glittering blouse tops that are attached to high-girdled skirts and the idea is being played up for all it is worth. This brings into the lime-light all sorts of elaborate embroidery, applique designs and sequin embellishment.

Then, too, there are yoke effects together with ornate sleeves for the making of which designers use contrasting materials or handsome lace or sheer nets. In fact you can simply let fancy run riot in evolving these flattering "above-the-table" dresses.

Frequently it is the dramatic blouse worn with a sedate skirt of cloth, silk crepe or velvet that turns the trick. This is especially true of the gorgeous metallic-weave blouses which are so decidedly in the style picture for winter.

The theory of the top-treatment dress is proving as workable for evening clothes as it is for daytime outfit. You will see many elegant velvet dresses with floor length hemline topped with yokes and over-the-shoulder effects that dramatize the entire costume.

SHEER BLACK WOOL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Sheer black wool is draped with distinction in this slender-line frock designed for afternoon and town wear. Self applique band detail outlines the shoulders and runs down the sleeves to the fitted wrists and the same treatment finishes the hemline of the smoothly flared skirt. Narrow curved metal bands at the self-fabric belt front are the only contrast notes. The sentiment in favor of wool fabric is increasing by leaps and bounds. Especially now that modern wools are so delicately sheer. Then, too, they have the advantage of looking well-groomed since they do not crease or wrinkle easily. For a genteel afternoon frock the new sheer wools are ideal, especially so for the black foundation dresses which fashion advocates with such enthusiasm this year.

FLASHES FROM PARIS

Fashions reflect Mexican color influence.

Midsession showings stress many purple and grape tones. Designers employ many pleatings and pin-tuckings.

Emphasis is on stripes in luxury fabrics, especially metal weaves.

Veils with topknot of flower or feather is latest evening head-dress.

Vast use of jewelled belts, huge clips and striking large pendants noted.

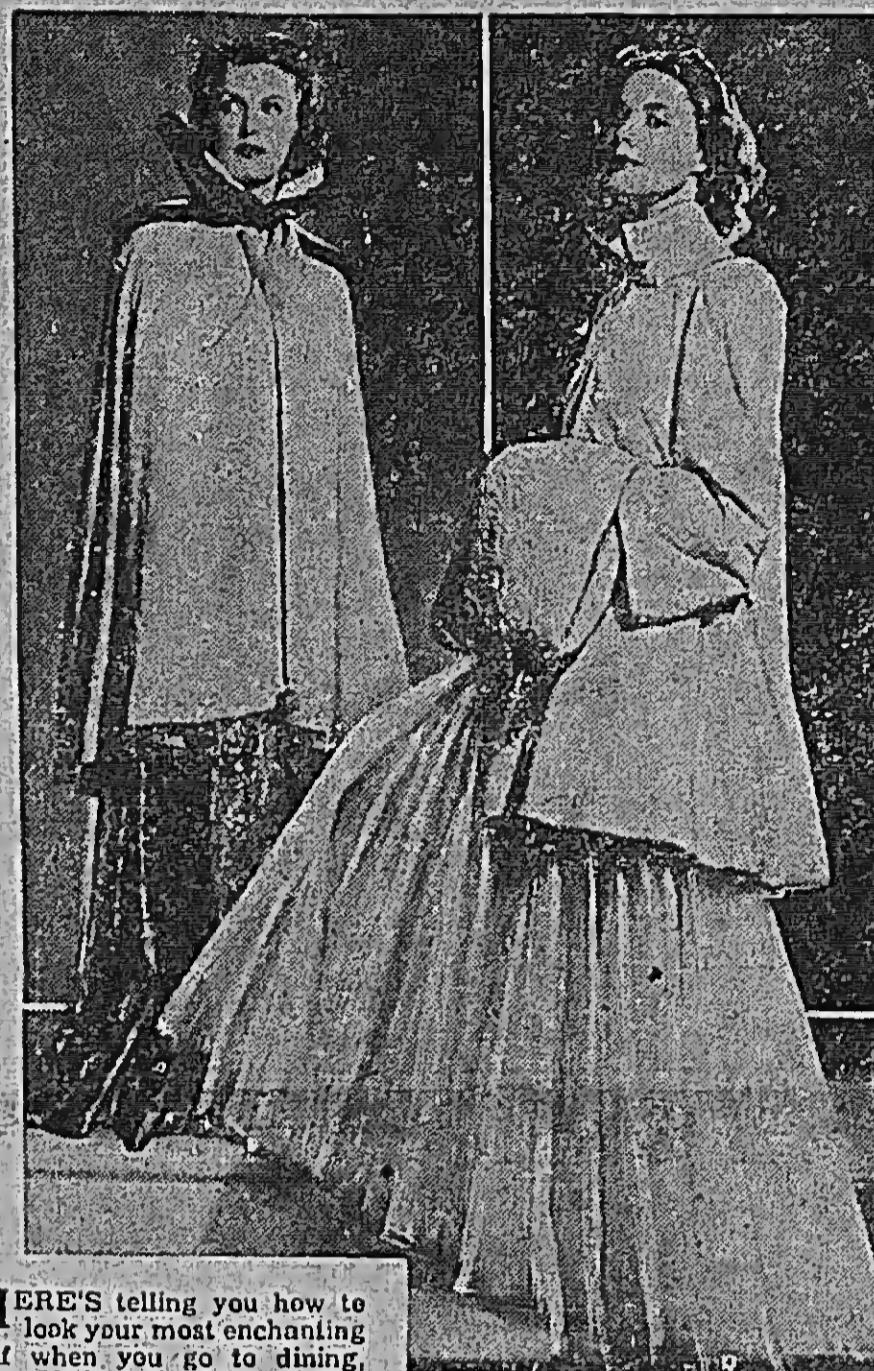

Snow white point venise lace boleros are worn with black crepe or velvet dinner gowns.

Dirndl Type Frock

Any woman who has made up her mind that the dirndl type of frock has passed out of the fashion picture will have to change her mind after seeing the winter resort collections.

All-White Wrap Is Chic This Winter

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HERE'S telling you how to look your most enchanting self when you go to dining, dancing and making merry during the winter social swirl. Told in fashion's own language the message is to wear flattering white, your gown, your wrap, your courage, all-white. White flower head-dress, too!

One of the new tulle frocks with voluminous skirt and expertly draped bodice that is so quaint and so chic all in one.

Yes indeed, this winsome muff and wrap set is one any stylish-minded woman would love to own. Well, why not even if you happen to be one among those to whom evening elegance at little cost is a problem to be met. Listen close, while we whisper a secret idea we feel the urge to pass on to you. If you needs must keep within a limited budget why not buy a few yards of white ermincrush and "make your own" little cushion muff and swank coat?

We might say that if you would be intrigued with the thought of a little bolero, muff and hat set, patterns are easily available and such a trio made of ermincrush would carry you through a winter with unmistakable style distinction and allure.

An all-white cape is also a posse session to be coveted. See the one in the picture. The lavishly of the velvet weave has been added unto by the trim of sable-dyed koinsky. You would not necessarily have to keep your white cape or coat for formal for the beauty about ermincrush is it really quite practical.

Cruising in tropical waters or vacationing up North, attending opera and making the rounds of teas and musicals, it is an ideal choice if it can be packed without fear of wrinkling since ermincrush naturally has a soft snowy white crushed pile.

BLACK IS FAVORED FOR DAYTIME WEAR

Black worn with white and light colors is Bruyere's choice for smart daytime clothes in the mid-season collection. Light wool costumes in black with white satin blouses are a highlight of the showing, and rhine-stone clips are the leading trim.

A black two-piece daytime ensemble is made in lightweight wool with straight-cut skirt and waist-length jacket of bloused design, fitted to a snug wide belt. With the costume is worn a lustrous white satin blouse with long, fitted sleeves. The bodice is draped from center of the waistline, where it is fastened with a wide grosgrain ribbon which forms a corset belt, dropped lower at the back. The suit jacket, opened to the waistline, is trimmed with a pair of rhinestone clips at the neck.

SUMPTUOUSLY FURRED TWEED SUITS ARE HIGH IN FAVOR

An increasing interest in suits made of striking tweed is noted. These are not just tweed in the ordinary sense of the word, but they are sumptuous affairs of gorgeous tweed that "gets you" because of the grand and glorious coloring and the fascinating nubby knotty textures. The opulent furs that trim these elegant suits are a fitting tribute to the tweed itself. These colorful tweed outfits give an excellent opportunity to vary the all-black vogue that has persisted for so long a time.

COVERT SLACKS

Wool covert cloth, long a favorite for topcoats, is being used for slacks by well-dressed undergrads at several leading Eastern universities.

STYLE NOTES

Black for lingerie is smart. Mid-season suits are sumptuously furred.

Dramatize your costume with awink accessories.

Skaters wear swirling full skirts, gored or circular.

Matching embroidery appears on gowns, suits and hats.

Alligator becomes the smart leather for shoes and bags.

Women are knitting three-quarter roomy coats for spring.

BOLERO TWIN SWEATER SETS

Flattering and Youthful

When you are shopping for a new twin sweater set, ask to see the late models that top the knitted pull-over with a cunning bolero rather than with the usual cardigan. They are more flattering and youthful looking.

The knitted bolero comes handy to slip on over your short-sleeved dresses when the thermomeric takes a plunge downward.

HOUSEWIFE HAS FAVORED DISHES

Cherished Recipes That Appeal to the Family.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ALMOST every housekeeper has some precious recipes which provide dishes that the family especially likes and that her guests appreciate because of some individual touch.

Whenever I can add a recipe of this sort to my collection, I feel that I am indeed fortunate, and I feel sure that you will like to have me share some of these with you. Sometimes, when I am given a cherished recipe, it is with the stipulation that I do not share it with anyone else. Again I am allowed to publish it in my column, perhaps with the hope that no friend or relative will send it back to the town of its origin. I did hear of one which returned to a southern city by India, Paris and New York.

Recipes of this sort are not always novel to everyone, but when they have been a specialty and are extremely good, they attain a sort of glamor. In any case, they are always delicious.

Here are two which have been presented to me by their owners within the last few months.

Mrs. Chase Is Chosen Altar & Rosary Pres.

Mrs. Paul Chase was elected president of the Altar and Rosary society of St. Peter's church at the annual meeting held Wednesday afternoon at rectory hall. Following the business session refreshments were served to the 30 members present.

FREDERIC SNYDER-COOKING SCHOOL

lieves that the people of dictator-ruled countries have little love for their bosses, but that they are actuated by fear. His remarks regarding dictators indicated that his real opinion of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini is unprintable, but returning to his native America his statements became more temperate, except for the obvious inferences that could be detected beneath the lines.

The speaker dwelt long on the fact that five-letter and six-letter words had been prominent in headlines during 1936 and 1937, respectively; which fact would seem to have small significance to the average reader except as an oddity in the news. The same words in other languages doubtless contain different "numbers" of letters.

Two Roosevelts Make History Repeat

The speaker's remarks took a humorous slant when he read an editorial from the New York Times, which had a peculiar ring of timeliness regarding a third presidential term. Then he revealed the date—1912. That was the year the nearly invincible Teddy Roosevelt wanted a third term and introduced the Bull Moose faction to split the Republican party and place Woodrow Wilson in the White House. "Strange how history repeats itself," Snyder said, "only this time another Roosevelt, also eying a third term, will wreck the party which first elected him to the highest honor in the land."

Warms of Catastrophe

Snyder claims to have a peculiar "nose for news" that sometimes pokes itself into the future, enabling him to tip off news vendors of the trend of events in the future. In 1937 he declares he "prophesied" that the word "school" would figure in the news on a national scale, and cited the disaster of the London school in east Texas on March 18 when 455 children and teachers lost their lives in a gas explosion and fire.

Snyder's warning is that three major calamities of world scope will occur in 1938, and that one of them will happen within the borders of the United States. The speaker did not say, however, that such a prediction would be a good bet in any year. Nevertheless, his prophecy, evidently spoken in good faith, is worth remembering.

His address was informative, interesting and well received by the large audience that gave rapt attention to his remarks for 90 minutes. The Woman's club deserves commendation for bringing a speaker of such unusual ability to Antioch.

THE LEGIONNAIRE

Six thousand and three beds for sick and disabled veterans of the U.S. wars are now made available by the addition to hospitals already built. But not at Hines Hospital: 4819 of these beds are at insane hospitals. We are to expect an additional 6000 beds to be constructed by July 1938.

Five new hospitals are being built in addition to the building of new wings at 42 hospitals now in existence. 3153 beds will be placed under contract in other hospitals not under control by the Veterans' Bureau. We urge you to write to your Congressman, Ralph Church asking him to use his influence to open Great Lakes Hospital to Veterans of the World War. This is important and we need those beds now, so just ask the congressman by postal card or a short letter to use his influence to open Great Lakes Hospital. His address is Washington, D. C.

Keeping pace with the baking, sausages and frying, a series of salads and frozen delicacies will parade in and out of the adaptable electric refrigerator, which will reveal its host of possibilities for simplifying labor and marketing, and contributing to good health and good food.

What to do with leftovers? How to take the gloom out of laundry day? How to save time, energy and temper in meal preparation? How to be attractive in spite of the daily rush? How to make the picnrist that men love to eat? How to give first-aid to fallen cakes?

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for expert home specialists have anticipated these very problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housekeeper, because it is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

And the camera has assembled all that sound information—not as a routine lecture, not as a formal "high-brow" demonstration, but as a real Romance of Homemaking full of suspense and charm, and informal chats from one good cook to another.

What about the story and what about the cast?

Some familiar Hollywood faces will be recognized in this production, which was filmed and directed in one of the famous West Coast studios. The heroine is a winsome bride, who shares the perplexities of many an older housekeeper. Actually the title should be "It might Happen Here" for the human story has universal appeal. And it might have happened right in this community.

Numerous nationally known firms and progressive merchants from our own community are joining with The News in making the entertaining school available. They promise a daily harvest of generous gifts and surprises, which will be distributed in addition to the useful recipe sheets.

Guests of The Antioch News will share a host of new adventures next February, 22, 23 and 24 in Antioch Theatre. The bell will ring at two o'clock, so be on hand promptly.

Beau Brummell's Nerve
Beau Brummell, Britain's leader of fashion, died in 1840, but the world is still chuckling over his escapades and colossal nerve. Asked by a beggar for a penny, he said he never heard of such a coin, "Here's a quarter." Returning from a trip abroad a friend inquired what scenery pleased him most, and ringing for his man, he said, "Pray, tell his lordship what scenery we liked best." But the climax of his impudence was the meeting of the crown prince and heir to the throne, walking with a duke, and saying to the duke, "Who's your fat friend?" At a time when the heir to the throne, his former chum and pal, was angry with him.

supper committee and Mrs. Otto Klass is chairman of the card committee.

"Bloody Hand" Coat of Arms. The "bloody hand" or "red hand" of Ulster forms part of the coat of arms of the former province, now Northern Ireland. It is supposed to commemorate the daring of O'Neill, a bold adventurer, who vowed to be the first to touch the shore of Ireland.

Finding the boat in which he was saved outstripped by others, he cut off his hand and flung it to shore, to touch it before those in advance could land. When James I forfeited the O'Neill estates in 1611 and created 200 new baronies on payment of a thousand pounds each, ostensibly for the "amelioration of Ulster," he allowed them to place on their coat armor the "open red hand," up to that time borne by the O'Neills.

First to Make Lifebelts

Lifebelts were first made by Englishman John Edwards in 1805. They really were not perfected for more than 80 years. In more recent times, cork was eliminated from some belts. In its place "kokop," a cotton-like fiber from an East Indian tree was used. This is lighter than cork.

Ice Boxes on Ships
Ice boxes on ships date back to 1856. Shipboard refrigeration came into use in the Campania and Lurline, Cunarders, in 1883.
